We had a blast today at our President's Day program.

We had two classes with Sol, which always makes the day extra fun.

Mashing bananas and mixing ingredients for muffins was awesome, especially knowing that it would be our afternoon snack!

We used paper, paint, cotton, & googly eyes to create a picture of our first president.

Then we were given air dry clay which we rolled into a ball, flattened, and pinched into a Hamentash shape. We poured in some glue, threw in some red colored beads. We can't believe that it is not edible! It will dry like ceramic. You can attach sticky tape or a magnet once it is very dry.

We danced along to some Purim music and videos.

Can't wait to see everyone on Sunday!
